About the DC Commission on the Arts and Humanities

Mission

Established in 1968, the DC Commission on the Arts and Humanities is the official government agency for arts and culture in the District of Columbia. The agency provides grants, programs and education activities that encourage diverse artistic expressions and learning opportunities, so that all District of Columbia residents and visitors can experience the rich culture of our city. The Arts Commission programs support and promote stability, vitality and diversity of artistic expression. The Arts Commission is comprised of a professional staff, assisted annually by peer review panelists and a host of volunteers. It is governed by eighteen private residents, who serve as the governing body and final funding authority for the agency, each of whom is appointed by the Mayor and approved by the Council of the District of Columbia.

Goals

To carry out the Commission's mission, the following goals have been established:

- Provide access to the arts for all District residents.
- Promote lifelong learning and interest in the arts and arts education for all ages.
- Build communities through public and private partnerships in the arts.
- Preserve the cultural diversity of the District of Columbia through the arts and humanities.

Board of Commissioners

A Board of Commissioners appointed by the Mayor of the District of Columbia governs the D.C. Commission on the Arts and Humanities. Applicants and patrons are encouraged to invite Commissioners to arts events and include them in their respective mailing lists.

Staff Contact: Mary Liniger

Arts Learning & Outreach: Teacher Mini-Grant Program grants encourages creative arts education projects in D.C. Public Schools (DCPS) and Public Charter Schools and to support the development and implementation of innovative teaching strategies to support DCPS Arts Content Standards. Deadlines for this program are ongoing during the school year. Contact the Arts Commission for further information.

Staff Contact: Mary Liniger

Arts Learning & Outreach: Artist Roster Program enables artists to apply for acceptance on the DCCAH Arts Learning & Outreach Artist Roster, making them eligible for participation in Arts Commission-funded school residency programs. Acceptance on the Artist Roster means that artists have the qualification to conduct school residencies, i.e., produce high quality artistic work, and have the skills and competencies needed to work with teachers and students in designing and implementing arts programs. All artists accepted onto the Artist Roster Program will be placed on the roster for two years, assuming a satisfactory evaluation at the end of year one. The Artist Roster will be distributed to all D.C. Public and Charter Schools, as well as on the DCCAH website. Please note that inclusion on the Artist Roster does not guarantee participation in the teacher mini-grant residencies. Individual schools will select artists for their application for a residency.

Staff Contact: Mary Liniger

Artist Fellowship Program funds grant support for individual artists who make a significant contribution to the arts and who promote the arts in the District of Columbia through artistic excellence.

Grant Review Process

Role of Advisory Panelists

Advisory panels are primarily responsible for reviewing and ranking each application within an assigned grant program according to evaluation and procedural criteria established for that program or discipline category. In addition to making recommendations on the artistic merit of the applications, advisory panels engage in discussions and offer recommendations to ensure that the Arts Commission continues to provide programs and services that meet the needs of the cultural community.

Selection Process

The Arts Commission has established a process to identify and select panelists who are broadly representative of various backgrounds, artistic activities and disciplines. Advisory panel nomination forms are sent each year to the community at large. Artists, administrators, educators and critics in the arts with at least a two-year history of involvement in the District arts community are eligible for nomination. The commission reviews the qualifications of nominees to fill panel vacancies, giving consideration to the diversity, geographic distribution and collective expertise required by each panel as well as the ability to work with others and the willingness to commit the necessary time to serve on a panel.

Terms of service

All panelists are appointed for a one-year term. A panelist may be reappointed up to three years, for a maximum of four consecutive years of service. Panelists serve on Commission advisory panels on a voluntary basis.

Advisory Panel Nomination Form

All citizens of the District of Columbia are encouraged to assist the Commission by recommending potential advisory panelists for grant programs. Those nominated should be knowledgeable about the arts in the District of Columbia. Panelists may not be applicants in the program on whose panel they serve. The recommendations of panelists form the principal basis for the Commission's funding decisions.

This form is provided for your convenience in making recommendations for advisory panelists. The Commission deeply appreciates the expertise and spirit of public service that advisory panel members bring to the grants review process.

Artists, administrators, educators and critics in the arts with at least a two-year history of involvement in the District arts community are eligible for nomination to the D.C. Commission on the Arts and Humanities' Advisory Panels. All panelists are appointed for a one-year term. A panelist may be reappointed up to three years, for a maximum of four consecutive years of service. The rotation of advisory panel members ensures that each year will bring varying perspectives to the grants review process. Panelists serve on the Commission advisory panels on a volunteer basis.

Please use one form for each nomination. Please make sure that the nominee is willing to serve before submitting his/her name for consideration as a panelist.

Tips on Preparing Grant Applications

Organizing Work Samples

All grant applications require the submission of one-of-a-kind work samples that best demonstrate the artistic merit of the application. The work sample requirements are listed on each individual grant application. The following is a list of helpful tips and guidelines to follow in preparing work samples.

Slides

If you are a visual artist, artisan or visual arts organization, your slides and digital images are one of your most important methods of communication. It is recommended that you follow the instructions below to help ensure that your work is presented properly to panelists for review.

1. Make sure that the image is in focus and correctly exposed. Shoot your work on a black backdrop or mask off the background in your slides to eliminate unnecessary visual information.
2. Make sure your slide is labeled with the title, date, medium, size of the artwork and your name and address. It is preferable to type or use a computer to print labels for presentation and legibility. Avery label #5167 fits slides.
3. Mark the slide with a dot (usually red or black) in the lower left hand corner:

CD-ROMs or DVD-ROMs

Digital images may be sent in electronic format on PC-formatted CD. For digital images, work should be saved in JPEG format (".jpg") at a high quality (60% - 80%) with a file size of no more than 1 megabyte each. JPEG files should be saved using the applicant name and image number. Include information on the required software, if appropriate, for viewing the images, and outline the navigation path to be followed or list the files to be reviewed in priority order.

Videotapes, Audio Tapes, and CDs

The panel will watch or listen to up to five minutes of taped or recorded work materials. Be sure to cue the tape to the point which best demonstrates your artistic merit. Also, be sure your tape is of high quality and represents yourself or your organization accurately and effectively. If submitting a work sample on a CD, be sure to indicate which track(s) you would like the panel to listen to (that total five minutes or less). Be sure to label all videotapes, audiotapes, and CDs with the artist name and/or name of your organization, in case they are accidentally separated from your application.

Literature

Applicants in literature categories must include copies of work samples in every application packet. Be sure to collate your work sample in with the individually bound applications.

Addressing Accessibility in Grant Applications

The D.C. Commission on the Arts and Humanities is committed to ensure that all grantees comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990. The ADA provides civil rights protection to individuals with disabilities in the areas of employment, services rendered by state and local government, places of public accommodation, transportation, and telecommunication services.

Organizations funded by the D.C. Commission on the Arts and Humanities must make reasonable accommodations to ensure that people with disabilities have equal physical and communications access, as defined by federal law. Accessibility involves both the physical location/facility and the content or activity of the program.

Organizations applying for funding from the Arts Commission should include a one-page accessibility plan with their application, detailing the following three items:

- 1.) The process for formulating your accessibility plan (i.e. advisory committee, board & staff training, budgeting, etc.)
- 2.) The current progress/status of your organization's physical accessibility. If your location is not barrier free, include timeline or steps being undertaken to make facility compliant.
- 3.) The current progress/status of your organization's accessibility in presenting activities – communications access (TDD, large print or Braille materials, audio description or assistive listening devices, interpreted performances, etc.) and marketing/advertising.

For more information on accessibility or to receive an accessibility checklist, please contact ADA/504 Coordinator Mary Liniger at (202) 724-5613. You may also download the checklist from the D.C. Arts Commission's website at dcarts.dc.gov.

Nondiscrimination

In accordance with the DC Human Rights Act of 1977, as amended, DC Official Code Section 2-1401.01et seq., (Act) the District of Columbia does not discriminate on the basis of actual or perceived: race, color, religion, national origin, sex, age, marital status, personal appearance, sexual orientation, familial status, family responsibilities, matriculation, political affiliation, disability, source of income, or place of residence or business. Sexual harassment is a form of sex discrimination, which is prohibited by the Act. In addition, harassment based on any of the above-protected categories is prohibited by the act. Discrimination in violation of the Act will not be tolerated. Violators will be subjected to disciplinary action.
